single beam panel saws

new devices for transforming a single beam panel saw into an angular plant

Devices consisting of a mobile grippers unit whose stroke is completely independent of the main pusher. They make both rip and cross cuts during the same machining cycle allowing an increase of productivity up to 40% and a space saving up to 20%.

flexcut 1/s

VERSION 1/s

Mobile unit equipped with a single gripper giving two independent cutting axes at an extremely low price.

The extreme flexibility of these devices is also guaranteed by the presence of the main pusher grippers, which can be excluded from the working area, so that strips with different widths can be secured and as a result any type of different cutting can be performed without limiting the stroke.

flexcut 1/d

VERSION 1/d

Extreme flexibility of the device achieved because the mobile unit is fitted with two grippers, one of which can be excluded, in this way guaranteeing a wide variability in the width of the strips that can be gripped.
